Petersbourg, April 26.

YESTERDAY the Anniverſary of her Imperial Majeſty's Coronation was celebrated here with great Magnificence and publick Demonſtrations of Joy, which are to continue for eight Days. The ſame Day her Imperial Majeſty was pleaſed to confer the Order of St. Andrew on M. Tattiſhoff, Marſhal of the Court, in Conſideration of his long and faithful Services, he having been in that Office ever ſince the Time of Peter the Great. Count Gollowin, High Admiral of Ruſſia, goes down to Cronſtadt To morrow to command the Fleet which lies there ready to put to Sea.

Prague, May 17, N. S. During the late Action near Braunau, and the ſinging of the Te Deum upon the Field of Battle, the Cannon of the Town was all turned on the Auſtrian Side, the Enemy having never expected to be attacked from the Side of Bavaria. It begins now to be believed that there are no more than 3000 Men ſhut up in Braunau, but they will have the greater Difficulty to eſcape, as the Auſtrians have burnt the Bridge over the Inn, and as General Hohenembs has ſo conſiderable a Body to obſerve them with, to the Weſt of that River. A Body of irregular Troops, ſaid to be arrived upon the Frontiers of Bavaria, have, ſupported by Bernclau's Regiment of Foot from out of the Tyrol, made themſelves Maſters of the Town and Caſtle of Aurbourg below Kuffſtain. This Body, joined to that of Hohenembs, will make one of 17 or 18000 Men. In the mean while Prince Charles is advanced towards Eggenfelden, Prince Lobkowitz is hovering between the Nab and Cham, and General Merci is moving towards Deckendorff, with five Regiments. The Queen has given to General Lucheſe, who brought the News of the Defeat of the Bavarians at Braunau, the Regiment late Caraffa's. We are in hourly Expectation of an Account of Prince Charles's farther Operations.

Copenhagen, May 21, N. S. The Preparations by Land ſeem to be ſuſpended here, but the Sea Armament goes duly on, and will be ſtrengthened with the Addition of ſix Men of War, among which the Chriſtianus Sextus, a ninety Gun Ship, the largeſt they have here, is comprehended. The whole Squadron conſiſts of 18 Men of War and ſix Frigates. If it puts to Sea, it is believed Count Daneskiold himſelf will go on board, and have the Command of it. Some of the Seamen, but no conſiderable Number, are now arrived here from Norway. The Affairs of Sweden are ſtill in the ſame uncertain Situation. The Court at preſent is at Fredericksbourg.

Hambourg, May 22, N. S. Is is thought that the 20th paſt, N. S. may have proved the deciſive Day in Sweden, and that the Succeſſion was then ſettled. They reckon that the laſt Courier diſpatched by the Ruſſian Miniſters from Abo to Petersbourg, for an Account of the final Intentions of that Court, may be returned, and the News he brings be known at Stockholm before that Day.

Hoechſt, May 23, N. S. The Hanoverians are encamped by themſelves upon the Mein, at the Diſtance of a League and a half above Francfort, near a Village called Dornighem; there are in their Camp all the Grenadiers of their Body, the ſix Battalions of Foot which croſſed the Rhine firſt, and ſix Squadrons of Horſe, beſides which, there are already come to that Camp two Battalions more, which arrived within theſe three Days, and the reſt of their Foot are juſt at Hand, and will all be in the Camp, as well as their Artillery, before the 28th. The Britiſh Troops are encamped in two ſeveral Bodies, the one about half a League above this Town towards Francfort, conſiſting of ſeven Battalions, and Lieutenant General Campbell's Regiment of Dragoons, which is already in the Neighbourhood, is to encamp there To-morrow or next Day. The other Camp of the Britiſh Troops is juſt below this Town, and is compoſed of the Regiments of Dragoons of Lord Stair and Bland, the three Battalions of Guards, and two other marching Regiments. The reſt of the Infantry (except two Battalions, which are to remain to guard the Bridge at Neuwied, till our Cavalry and that of Hanover have paſſed the Rhine) and all the Dragoons will join the Army here in a few Days, as well as our Artillery. The Horſe are likewiſe coming up very faſt, and the laſt Diviſion of the Britiſh Cavalry is to paſs the Rhine upon the 28th. The Hanoverian Cavalry are to follow them as cloſe as poſſibly they can, and the Heſſians, both Horſe and Foot, are actually in Motion to follow them; ſo that Lord Stair will have all his Force together very ſoon. The Auſtrians have begun to encamp likewiſe upon the Banks of the Mein, but a good deal farther down towards Mentz.

Liege, May 24, N. S. Yeſterday the firſt Diviſion of the Heſſian Troops, conſiſting of the Etat Major, the Regiment of Grenadiers, and the Regiment of Foot Guards, arrived upon the Frontier of this Principality at St. Tron, and marched this Day to Tongres, where they will halt To-morrow, and paſs the Maeze the 26th at Maeſtricht. We are informed, that the General Prince George of Heſſe marches with this Diviſion, which is commanded by Major General De Brandt.

Hague, May 28, N. S. Yeſterday the States diſpatched away the Orders to the Regiments appointed for the Aſſiſtance of the Queen of Hungary, to be in a Readineſs to march upon the firſt Warning; and as ſoon as the Queen's Intentions ſhall be known, theſe Troops are to march towards their Rendezvous. We had an Account

Account here Yesterday Night from Helvoet, that two of his Majesty's Yachts, and some other Vessels, having on board the King's Field Equipages, arrived there in the Afternoon; the latter were to sail for Rotterdam, where they arrived safe this Morning. His Grace the Duke of Richmond came to the Hague Yesterday Night. Besides the Advantages the Austrians lately got by their Victoy over the Bavarians, they have since taken the Towns of Dingelfinghen and Landau. The French Regiments of Picardy and Burgundy suffered very much at the former of those Places. And some Letters from Brussels, arrived this Morning, make mention of a new Action between Prince Charles and Prince de Conti, to the great Loss of the latter: But there is no certain Account of this.
